—The indications are that all the remainder of the old city debt, amounting to something over $100,000, will be handed in for funding by Monday next. The act creating the board expires on that night—the last day of the month.

—A party of nine gentlemen, boarding at the Peabody Hotel, and who have become as a band of brothers from eating at the Peabody Hotel, and who have become as a band of brothers from eating at the same table for a long time, will entertain a like number of their lady friends at a swell dinner at that hostelry this evening at 7 o'clock.

from the testimony of eye-witnesses, it will go hard with him. Mr. Cheek is seventy-six years of age, and the act of the driver appears to have been of the most wanton character.

—It was announced in the United States Court yesterday morning that after the completion of the case of Gumph & Co. vs. Froelich & Co., now on trial, the court would adjourn from Monday, November 30th, until Wednesday, Decemier 2d, on account of the death of the late Vice-President Hendricks, and in respect for his memory. And that on Wednesday next, December 2d, the peremptory call of the jury docket would commence, and the cases must be tried on that call, or not at all this term.

old, and that even such intention would not have taken away the right of the cred-itor. I presume it has never been a seri-ous question of law, but rather a question of policy, whether a bonded debt of $3,003,000 sgainst the new government was not worth more to the creditors than a much larger amount in the shape it was in. As we have said, this case has been heard and the interested parties have no wish to retry it. But there is a practical ques tion growing out of it, and that is whether the property-owners and solid men of Memphis appreciate how much has been done for the presperity and future of the city in the settlement of this debt, and will see to it that the men who have been intrusted with so great an undertaking and have discharged this trust with such fidelity, remain in their present places. It is putting it very mildly to add that the arising that will materially and permanently affect it, and that the present is a bad time to make any change in the administration of your government."

"You are not an anti-Hadden man, then?"

"There should not be an anti-Hadden man in the city of Memphis. I am not a resident of the city, but I want him put back in the office he now holds, and I don't mind saying that I have a selfish reason for saying so. back in the office he now holds, and I don't mind saying that I have a selfish reason for saying so. Naturally, I desire that the interest on the new bonds I hold should be regularly paid. Should he retain his position, in company with the gentlemen who now share its labors with him, I would feel perfectly secure. It follows, as a matter of course, that when the interest is regularly paid, the value of the bonds will steadily increase. At the present rate at which Memphis is progressing, its affairs wisely administered will advance the value of the bonds to par. At present the government is being conducted on the wisest and most economical basis, and, as I said before, if Mr. Hadden will agree to continue in office not a voice in Memphis but should be raised in indorsement of him. Exshould be raised in indorsement of him. Except for him," Mr. Brown continued, 'would never have come here, but his last let ter was so earnest, manly and straightfor-ward that I concluded to run down, whether I accomplished any hing or not. When I met him and gave him not. When I met him and gave him my ultimatum, he replied, in the simplest way that he would tell the board what I said, and in all the interviews I have had with him during my visit he has never for a moment lost his equilibrium. His self-control, his easy, genial, but nevertheless determined way of doing things has impressed me a coord deal. It but nevertheless determined way of doing things has impressed me a good deal. It is an invaluable gift, and I wish I possessed it. There are times when I will lose my temper and fly off at a tangent, but Hadden never. It is just such a cool, clear-headed man as Memphis needs now that she has started upon the high road to prosperity and has rid herself of one great burden to take on a smaller, but still heavy one. No sir, you can put me down as saving that sir, you can put me down as saying that instead of opposition, the man who has accomplished that which was once deemed an imcossible task, the settlement of the old Memphis debt, deserves a monument for that one act alone."

—Mr. John Cheek, who was knocked down and painfully injured by a 'bus at the corner of Main and Linden streets last Tuesday, is still confined to his bed. Frank Satterfield, the driver, will be tried in the Police Court to-day, and, judging from the testimony of eye-witnesses, it will go hard with him. Mr. Cheek is seventy-six years of age, and the act of the driver ancears to have been of the most wanton

TAKING THE CENSUS.

President Hadden said he had a communication from Messrs. Brogan and Humphreys, saying they would take the census of the city for $1200, the city to furnish the blanks, and the work to be done to the satisfaction of Dr. Thornton. No action was taken.

SYCAMORES DOOMED.

On motion of the case of Gumph & Co. vs. Froelich & Co., now on trial, the court would adjourn from Monday, November 30th, until Wednesday, December 2d, on account of the death of the late Vice-President Hendricks, and in respect for his memory. And that on Wednesday next, December 2d, the peremptory call of the jury docket would commence, and the cases must be tried on that call, or not at all this term.
